I'm an artist who goes grocery shopping everyday alone.

My works are based on how I feel about what I'm looking at and imagining. Each artwork is an idea itself, and it's important to express my feelings directly onto my works. I look at certain objects and like to represent them in my own thoughts. In my opinion, everything in the world can be art depending on each person's perspective. I may change the colors and composition of the original objects based on how I feel. In addition, I might use palette knife or my fingers to express roughness.

I would like to try making artworks based on a certain topic. I think it would be interesting to do that. I make all the works related to one another and connected to the theme. Even if I make works with different materials, they all will resemble the topic. I have fun when other people get curious about what I'm expressing. This makes me feel like they are having some interest on what I'm doing. It encourages me to do more artworks. I hope I have a time with them in the future making art. We can discuss and help each other on artworks.

If there are more people, there is a higher chance to see various kinds of art. I think artworks should be made with truthful feelings.

I will grocery shop everyday in the future if I can keep walking. In addition, I will make artworks continuously.
